ESTATE RECOVERY

Overview

Estate Recovery in the Medicaid program was made mandatory to the states by the federal government pursuant to the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1993.

Estate Recovery applies to Medicaid recipients:

- Who at the time of death were any age and an inpatient in a nursing facility, intermediate care facility for people with mental retardation or other mental institution
- Who at the time of death were 55 years of age or older when the person received home and community based services instead of care in an institution

The Estate Recovery statute has existed in Georgia since 1981. Only estates that are valued less than $25,000 are excluded from Estate Recovery, in accordance with federal law.

What is an “estate” in estate recovery?

The definition of an estate is “all real and personal property under the probate code.” The estate also includes real property passing by joint tenancy, right of survivorship, life estate, survivorship, trust, annuity, homestead or any other arrangement. The estate additionally includes excess funds from a burial trust or contract, promissory notes, cash and personal property.

When must DCH be notified of a qualified estate?

DCH must be notified:

- Within 30 days of the death of the Medicaid recipient
- If the personal representative of an estate makes a distribution either in whole or in part of the property of an estate without having reimbursed the Medicaid agency, the personal representative may be held personally liable

Delayed Recovery

Recovery is delayed if:

- The deceased recipient's spouse is still living
- The deceased recipient has a living child under the age of 21

HARDSHIP CRITERIA

In determining whether an undue hardship exists, the following criteria will be used:

- The asset to be recovered is an income producing farm of one or more of the heirs and the annual gross income is limited to $25,000 or less; or
- The recovery of assets would result in the applicant becoming eligible for governmental public assistance based on need and/or medical assistance programs
